“ To my second Dad, Chester Lee: thank you for sharing your heart, your home and your life with me as if I were one of your own.

I'll never forget playing basketball in your yard in Lincoln Park, and you telling me "if you can't do better than that, you best go back in the house!" March Madness won't ever be the same without you.

Shelley and I will always remember when you and Ma took us into your "Old Kentucky Home" after you retired and showed us your Southern roots. You let me drive "Bad Habit", what a blast that was! Shelley and I will always be grateful for the love you have shown us through the years.

I will continue to remember you each and every Veteran's Day. You are a true hero!

*RIP Dad, we love you!
