“ I am one of Myrtle Johnson's granddaughters, Denise Ryan. When I was a child, I would visit my grandmother during the summers and go over to Aunt Mollie's house. She would make me grilled cheese sandwiches and tomato soup for lunch then we would throw rocks in her creek. It was my husband's turn to choose a girl's name when our third one came along and he chose Molly, who ironically, looks a lot like my Aunt when she was a child. I hope my Molly turns out to be as loving and funny as my Aunt Mollie. I still remember stories she told me about her childhood that make me laugh every time I think of her. She will always have a special place in my heart.
