“ Pearlie, I didn't know you too well, only what my sisters would tell me (they adored their grandmother) and that you treated my dad like he was one of your own kids, and even though I had only seen you a handful of times, I remember you being such a kind woman. Your family told me some great stories today at the services they held for you, they all really do indeed love you! Like the preacher said, you haven't left us, you've graduated and earned those wings. Please continue to watch over your family, they all miss you dearly, but we all know that you're in a better place too.

“ My dear Mammaw I have so many wonderful memories of you that I will cherish forever. You were an amazing, strong, independent woman and I am so glad you were my Mammaw. I learned a lot about life from you and I only hope to become half the lady you were. I admire your kindness, strength, faith in the lord, and the way you loved each one of us. You were the matriarch family and life will never be the same without you. Until we meet again one day know that I love you and I'll hold your memory close to my heart forever. Rest in peace Mammy Pearlle, I love you!
