“ I can't remember when I didn't call you my brother. We grew up together and was always close. So I have lots of memories. But one of the best memories was the day I rededicated and you hugged me. You were so happy and said, "something like I was waiting on you to do it.". We never say each other that I didn't get a big hug and we never didn't tell each other we loved each other. My heart is breaking but I know that selfishness on my part. You are walking the streets of gold. It warms my heart knowing I will see you again someday and get another hug and I love you. Sending love and prayers to the family.
